FRENCH FIGHT BULGARIANS

Hurl Their Strength Against Forces on Vadar River Today

MAKE SOME PROGRESS

Bulgars, However, Said to Be Sweeping Everything Before Them North of Monastir.

Athens, Nov. 19.—In an effort to distract the Bulgars from southeastern Serbia, where they are sweeping everything before them, the French are hurling all their strength against the Bulgarian forces on the Vardar river today.

The French troops' situation is favorable. They have already won some successes and seem on the eve of gaining fresh ground, but it is feared they are not numerous enough to follow up their advantage to the utmost. Message after message has come back from the front calling for re-enforcements.

London, Nov. 19—A striking victory for the French over the Bulgarians in one sector of the front in southern Serbia is unofficially reported through Paris. General Sarrail's troops are said to have driven strong Bulgarian forces to the right bank of the Vardar River as the result of a two day battle.

Capture by the French of the town of Kasturino and a defeat of the Bulgarians by the British on the Valondovo-Rabrovo front also are reported in the advices received in Paris.

The Bulgarians apparently are sweeping all before them in the region north of Monastir. A London message early today said confirmation had been received in Salonica of the report that the Bulgarians had taken Priplep, imperiling Monastir, which the Serbians were preparing to evacuate, it was said.

The Austro-German forces in Serbia continue to press back their opponents, according to the German war office, which announced today that the town of Kursumlya had been occupied by German troops after being abandoned by the Serbians.

Several hundred Serbians and a number of cannon were captured by the Germans. The Teutonic forces have now reached a line running from Javot, near the Montenegrin border, to the north of Raska, and to Kursumlya, Radan and Orunglica, according to Berlin.

London, Nov. 19—Military reports from Petrograd indicate that the Russians are holding their own along their long battle line reaching from Riga down into Galicia. The Germans, in their efforts to hammer their way from Mitau to Riga, have been driven back at Olai. The Czar's troops seem now to be in possession of the long disputed district about Lake Swenton, southwest of Dwinsk, for they now report finding enemy dead in the German trenches there.

The report of heavy artillery encounters about Lakes Driexiaty and Boguinskole southeast of Dwinsk, indicate that an effort is being made by the Teutons to circle about the Russians stronghold on the Dwina River. Another report of the Germans being checked at Medvegie on the railway between Kowet and Sarny, to the west of the Styr River strengthens the opinion that the numerous rivers in the Ukraine will prove to be insuperable obstacles to the invaders.

GOVERNMENT TO BUILD SHIPS

Secretary Daniels says Private Yards May Be Cut Out

Washington, Nov. 19—Confronting a situation acknowledged as "most serious" to the navy building program Secretary of the Navy Daniels yesterday declared that the government may find itself compelled for self-protection to eliminate all private shipbuilding concerns from consideration in the future construction work of the navy.

Intimating the strongest displeasure over the failure of the private concerns to keep their bids within the limitations of the congressional authorization, with respect to the two dreadnoughts about to be built, the Secretary let it be known that drastic action is being considered by himself and his associates in the Navy Department. So far has the matter progressed that it is regarded as assured that at least one of the two authorized dreadnoughts will be constructed by the government in one of its own yards.

The concerns bidding for the contracts to build the dreadnoughts specified certain exemptions which would amount to about $400,000 in the case of each ship. To award the contracts under such conditions, therefore, would make it necessary for the Navy Department to go back to Congress with a recommendation for an additional appropriation, and this is a thing that Secretary Daniels yesterday declared emphatically he would not do. Rather than adopt that course, the Secretary said he would order the equipment of the government navy yards to make them available for the construction of these capital ships.

An expenditure of $200,000 on the equipment at the League Island yard, the Secretary said, would make it possible for the acceptance of that yard's estimate for one of the ships. He said that by working overtime at the League Island yard it would be possible by next May to lay the keel of one of the new vessels.

HEAVY STORMS ON COAST

Wire Communication Demoralized and Only Meager Reports from Storm-Swept Section

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19—The Norwegian bark Killena was driven ashore at Brunswick, Ga., and other damage was done by a heavy wind and rainstorm which swept the South Atlantic Coast from Florida to Charleston, S. C., late yesterday. Wire communication was demoralized and only meager reports had been received late last night from the storm-swept section.

The bark Killena was reported in bad condition, with fears entertained that she may have been battered to pieces. The crew reached shore, but Captain C. Steen elected to stand by his ship. The Killena carried 5,000 barrels of rosin for Norwegian ports.

It was officially reported that the wind reached a velocity of fifty miles an hour at Charleston, S. C.

Two unidentified men were reported to have been killed when the storm struck a turpentine camp near Waycross, Ga. Many smaller towns still were cut off from communication late to-night.

His mother fainted five times in succession when told of his death.

Charged with having caused the lad's death, William J. Watson, colored, 32 years old, 585 Orchad street, chauffeur of the machine, is being held at the Northwestern Police Station, where Coroner J. Frederick Hempel will hold an inquest at 8 o'clock tonight.

SPEAKER WILL LEAD THE FIGHT

Clark Going to Capital Soon to Marshal Forces for Defense

IS TO FIGHT BRYAN

Prospective Measuring of Enemies' Strength Adds Great Interest to The Situation

Washington, Nov. 19—Speaker Clark has sent word to friends of the President that he will leave for Washington in a few days to take up the fight in the House for the Administration's defense program. The Speaker has intimated, it is said, that he will leave the chair when the fight reaches the House floor and will personally lead the forces which will be opposed by Floor Leader Claude Kitchin.

An element of unusual interest attaches to this situation, inasmuch as it will give Speaker Clark his first opportunity to measure strength in the House with his enemy, William J. Bryan. Mr. Bryan, through his friends will exhaust all his resources to defeat the defense program of the President. This program, therefore, promises a unique line up. The Speaker will be found supporting the President whom the President defeated for the nomination at Baltimore, whereas Mr. Bryan, who was largely responsible for Mr. Wilson's nomination, will be found opposing the Administration.

Representative Saunders, of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic caucus of the House, announces that he is opposed to increased appropriations for national defense.

The Virginian says that if the United States enters upon a building campaign other countries will, after the war, be compelled to do the same thing, and he cites a recent declaration of Lord Roseberry to support his argument. Mr. Saunders wants to wait until the war in Europe is over before fixing upon a new preparedness policy. In his statement today he said:

"I am opposed to extraordinary appropriations for defense for the reason that, in my opinion, it would be well to defer any deparure in this regard until the conclusion of the war in Europe.

"Lord Rosebery recently made a statement in which he deprecated the agitation for increased armament in the United States. He suggested that if the United States went in for defense on a large scale it would force all other countries to do so. If we in this country are obliged to increase our appropriations for defense we should wait until we have an opportunity to study the lessons taught by the war. I have opposed increased armament in the past, and I shall maintain that attitude in the coming Congress."

Mr. Saunders added that he would soon issue a call for the meeting of the Democratic caucus to be held on December 4. This body will meet for the primary purpose of filling vacancies in the House committee. Questions bearing upon national defense, revenue and the merchant marine are also expected to come up at that time.

OPPOSE WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Representive Saunders Fears it Would Inaugurate Militarism

Representative Edward Saunders, of Virginia, yesterday came out with a brand-new argument against woman suffrage. He told a delegation of women who called on him that he was honestly afraid to give them the vote, for he was opposed to the preparedness agitation and so many suffragists recently had declared themselves in favor of an increase in armament that he feared suffrage would bring with its militarism.

The delegation was composed of Virginia suffragitst interested in the enactment at the next session of Congress of the Susan B. Anthony amendment. When he came out with his statement linking militarism and suffrage, the women threw up their arms in protest. They explained that suffragists were disagreed on the subject of national defense, but that they stood as a unit in holding that they had the right to express their individual opinion on the matter through the ballot.

Mr. Saunders told the delegation that his women relatives in Virginia were suffrage workers. 'The Constitution and the spirit of the age must be one." he said with an air of finality.

Miss Elsie Hill outlined the purpose of the visit. She was followed by Mrs. Francis Berger Moran, a grandniece of Mrs. Bushrod Washington, whose husband inherited Mount Vernon from George Washington. Among the other delegates were Mrs. Stuart Mosby Coleman, daughter of Col. John Mosby; Mrs. John Azlett Nicol, of Manassas, Va., and Mrs. C. E. Nicol of Alexandria, Va.

BISHOP ON THE SOCIAL SERVICE

Bi-Product, and Like Putting Mush Poultice on Cockatrice

IS A POROUS PLASTER

Delivers Address at Opening of Second Day's Session of Conference of M. E. Church

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 19—The Virginia Methodist Conference, in annual session at Cumberland Street church Norfolk, convened yesterday morning in its second day, Bishop Chanler presiding.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the Bishop, prayer being offered by Rev. Dr. W. J. Young.

The Bishop made an opening address during which, like Bishop Kilgo, at the session of this conference last year, he said some sharp things of "social service"—the new work in which many of the churches are now engagin. He said that relieving poverty and other physical needs of the people is all right but it is a bi-product and should not be the chief business of the church. He spoke of "social service" as a porous plaster, and said that you had as well put a mush poultice on the head of the cockatrice: That the Church has got to go deeper than that. And, said he, along with this "work on the outside," we see men finding all sorts of "situations" that need solutions, but that when you look into these co-called "situations" you find that it is just the old-fashioned "blue jeans" sin—nothing new.

At another point in his address he said that he hoped that any man, who hesitates to go into the ministry because of the poor salary will continue to hesitate; that a man who thus hesitates hasn't got either sense or religion enough to be a minister of the Gospel. He said a doctor can be manufactured, but a true preacher is born from above; that you nowadays hear of a man being in the gutter one day and preaching the next day, but that such a thing is not authorized by the Scripture; that men should be sure about their "call" to the ministry; that the men commissioned by Jesus to preach were the output of His compassion for the needs of a lost world.

Referring to the fact that in the news despatches that speak of the need in Germany of men for the ministry, it was stated that the wounded army officers are being placed in charge of the churches, the Bishop said, think of it, "crippled colonels" in charge of the Lord's work—they wouldn't, as I see it, bring in the millennium in a hurry.

Rev. Dr. Stewart, representing the superannuate endownment fund of the Southern Methodist church, was introduced and addressed the Conference, making a most forceful plea for the retired preachers and their families. He said he did not come to play upon the sympathies of those who hear him in this connection, but that he presents this subject as a matter of simple justice to the men who have given many years of their lives to the ministry and retired when they were no longer able to continue active work.

He said that these men and their families in the Southern Methodist church are only receiving, on the average annually $145.12. And he called attention to the fact that it has been said that the U. S. Government pensions men for killing men, and that certainly men should be pensioned for saving men. He congratulated this conference on the fact that it stands second among the conferences in the matter of the amounts already raised for this endowment fund, Virginia having raised $63,000. Missouri has raised over $100,000. He insisted that the ministers should have a decent support while they are in the active work and be well taken care of when they have to retire.

It was announced that J. T. Catlin of Danville has been appointed a trustee of Randolph-Macon College, vice John P. Branch of Richmond, deceased.

Samuel Whybrew, business manager and news editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate, was introduced and addressed the conference.

The conference heard a fine address by Rev. Dr. R. H. Bennett in behalf of the Southern Methodist correspondence school, which he represents as Secretary of Ministerial Supply and Training. With strong argument and keen humor he made plain the benefits of the above school in preparing men for the ministry.

GERMANS MORE ACTIVE.

Allies Silence Teutonic Fire Though Renewal of Attack to Gain Lost Ground is Expected.

Rotterdam, Nov. 199.—There is a great renewal of activity from Ypres to Arras.

The artillery actions are heavier than any that have yet been known, with the exception of that preceding the allies' offensive in September. There has also been severe infantry fighting.

Despite the fearful expenditure of life by the Germans in their fruitless efforts to regain the ground lost in September, there are indications that they are preparing a renewal of the attacks.

Day and night their artillery has bombarded the positions which the French and British recently conquered. Intermittently their infantry has attacked the trenches at Loos, and also in the neighborhood of Souches; but any arrangements which they have made for a big offensive has been completely upset by the allies' gunners, who have silenced many of the German batteries and prevented them from making use of their reserve troops at critical moments.

HILLSTROM SHOT.

Convicted Man Fights Executioners When Taken From Cell This Morning.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 19.— Shot through the heart while blindfolded in a chair Joseph Hillstrom, young I. W. W. leader, convicted of murdering two men here for robbery in January 1914, was legally executed by the State today.

Hillstrom went to his death fighting in an insane frenzy.

In some unknown manner he had concealed a broomhandle in his cell.

When the door of the death cell was opened Millstrom, leaped upon the guards, swinging his club, fiercely on the heads, severely cutting one about the scalp and face.

The guards sprang upon Hillstrom and overpowered him.

Up to the moment he came out of the cell he had not shown a sign of resisting and his assault took the officials completely by surprise.

"I will die fighting—not like a coward," he screamed while the guards pinioned his arms to his sides.

They urged him to be quiet and go to the death chair quietly. When further resistance was useless Hillstrom settled down suddenly to an apathetic calm.

"Now I can die with a clear conscience," he said.

The march to the firing squad was then commenced. Warden Arthur Pratt, and a deputy led the line.

Two physicians followed and then Hillstrom, between two deputy sheriffs'.

Hillstrom's eyes were not blindfolded until he had been taken into the prison yard. It was his wish to face the firing squad with open eyes, but a thick, heavy band of cloth was placed tightly across his eyes and around his head.

Hillstrom was pronounced dead within thirteen seconds after he was shot at 7:42 a. m.

EDUCATION AT FINAL SESSION

Prominent Speakers Heard at Closing Session of the Synod

AN ADMIRAL SPEAKS

Enthusiastic Conference of Sunday School Workers of State Held This Morning

Richmond, Nov. 19.— Concluding services of the first annual session of the Provincial Synod of Washington were held last night in St. James Church, where the topic of religious education was discussed, and the need of such education in conjunction with secular teaching was enlarged upon. The services were conducted by Rt. Rev. Rogers Israel, D. D., chairman of the Commission on Religious Education, and the speakers were Rev. Stewart U. Mitman, field secretary of the Provincial Board; Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, United States Navy, retired, president of George Washington University, and Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, D.D., Bishop of Maryland and president of the synod.

Mr. Mitman talked of the opportunities presented in the educational field, and of the vast need for increase in the work; Admiral Stockton told of the work which is being done in the colleges and in other education institutions ,and Bishop Murray talked in powerful and persuasive manner of the responsibility which rests upon the clergy for the religious education of the people.

There was a large audience present, composed of clergy and laymen of the Episcopal faith and of men who follow in other creeds, but who are as vitally interested in the general work of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Mitman, the first speaker, introduced by Bishop Israel, spoke on "The Field; Its Present Condition and Prospective Growth." He gave statistical figures showing that the church had not performed the task which had been allotted it, and referred to the number of people to whom direct appeal has not yet been made. He said that the field of the Washington Province consisted of twelve dioceses, in which there are 13,000,000 people. Among this population there is tremendous need, he said, for influence directed through the Sunday schools, though they had done well in 1915, when $16,064 was received through their sources.

"The aim of the Sunday schools, he said, "is to occupy the whole field adequately. In 1907 it was reported that there were fourteen counties in Southwestern Virginia which were without Sunday schools, Since that time, however, conditions have improved, and the gospel is being spread in that district through the agency of the Sunday school." He said that the Sunday schools should be strengthened, and that they should be so directed that more candidates for holy orders might be procured from the boys. The solution of the problem of the lack of candidates for the church, he said, depends in the last analysis in the teaching force.

Bishop Murray, president of the synod, spoke on "The Laborer; the Responsibility of the Clergy for the Religious Education of the People of the Church." He had looked upon the religious situation of the day, and heard that loud clamor, which alleges that Christianity has failed, as that supposed failure has been instanced and described by those who believed that religion fell when Europe was filled with war and every nation was batting against the other.

The synod ended last night, but a Sunday school conference, to which all Sunday school teachers were invited was held in the parish house of St. James this morning.

The entente has made representations at Athens which will be followed by immediate action. The allies will not tolerate any delay. Preparations have been completed, the nature of which is withheld, Italy is destined to play an important role in the developments.

MEETING OF BAPTISTS

Large Gathering Last Night in Church At Clarendon, Alexandria County.

One of the most important meetings ever held by the Baptist General Association of Virginia began in the Baptist Church at Clarendon, Alexandria county last night with devotional services led by Professor W. L. Prince, and with the delivery of the annual sermon by Rev. R. B. Garrett, of Portsmouth.

The delegates from all parts of Virginia, a large number of whom were in attendance when the meeting began, were welcomed to the little town south of the Potomac by Rev. H. L. Swain, pastor of the Clarendon Church. Delegations from the First and Second Baptist churches of Alexandria are present. The response was by Rev. John F. Vines, who, in speaking of the appreciation of Virginia Baptists, recalled numerous incidents of historic nature, and said that Baptists from any part of the Old Dominion would feel welcome in any other part of it.

Rev. B. D. Gaw, fraternal delegate from Washington also spoke in response to the welcome.

First business on the program was the annual sermon by Rev. R. B. Garrett, of Portsmouth. Mr. Garrett's discussion was a most scholarly one and great credit was reflected upon the workers of the Virginia Baptist Association for their accomplishments during the last twelve months.

The first business session of the meeting followed the sermon. The balloting for moderator resulted in the choice of Westwood Hutchison, a prominent layman in Virginia, a banker at Manassas. Rev. Dr. Lloyd T. Wilson, Rev. W. A. Jenkens, N. T. Williams and R. S. Barbour were named vice-presidents.

Dr. Hugh Smith, who for many years has been the clerk of the General Association sessions, was reelected.

An interesting incident of the first session was the exchange of greetings between the Virginia Methodist Conference, now in session in Norfolk, and the Baptist Association. The exchange was by telegraph, and each organization felicitated the other on the gathering of the hosts for the strengthening of the forces for good were received.

A telegram was received by Rev. H. W. Battle, of Charlottesville, chairman of the program committee, from President Woodrow Wilson, at Washington, in which it was stated that it is unlikely that President will be able to attend and to address the Virginia Baptists.

Mr. Wilson wired that he is so busy working on his message to the coming session of Congress that it is doubtful whether he will be able to attend the association meeting. If he can find time to do so, the telegram promises, he will run over from Washington and will address the Baptists.

On Sunday afternoon at the general meeting the speaker will be Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels. Rev. Dr. H. W. Battle, of Charlottesville, will preside over that session.

EASTERLY WIND STORM.

High Winds and Showers Prevail During Most of Last Night

The cloudy conditions of yesterday afternoon brought rain late last night, and after midnight the wind gathered force and there were downpours throughout the night, the gale which accompanied the rain being heavy at times. The wind had changed to the south this morning, and the sun shone out ati ntervals. According to the weather forecaster, cooler and clear weather is to follow with westerly winds.

Storm developments of the last 24 hours, characterized by the weather bureau as "the most remarkable in many years," caused warnings to be ordered up last night along the Atlantic Seaboard from Jacksonville, Fla., to Eastport, Me., and at great lake ports.

Two intense storm centers have appeared, one central late last night on the South Carolina coast and moving northeastward, and the other in the Lakes Erie and Ontario.

The Southern storm, apparently the more severe, already had interrupted communication last night on the Georgia coast, the bureau announced, and expected to develop "dangerous easterly gales from Hatteras to the New England coast within the next

Hard Game With Gallaudet Reserves Expected Tomorrow.

Anticipating a hard battle Saturday with the Gallaudet Reserves. Coach Mueller, has had his charges practicing hard all week preparing for the contest.

The locals have been particularly unfortunate this season in the matter of having games cancelled, for some reason. The Washington elevens have suffered considerably from a case of "cold feet," apparently not relishing the size of the score the "Big V" team has been rolling up.

Saturday's contest to be staged at Baggett's field for 3:30 o'clock, however, is a certainty. Coach Wayne Hart, of Gallaudet talke with Coach Mueller, today on the phone, and assurred him that the Reserves would be on hand and prepared to put-up the stiffest sort of a battle.

This will be the first time a team from Kendall Green ever played in Alexandria, and local football enthusiasts are showing a great deal of interest in the game.

KOCH PRISONER OF WAR

America Will Not Ask for Return of German Officer Who Broke Parole

Lieut. Henri Koch, who broke parole and escape from the interned German cruiser Prinz. Eitel Friedrich at Norfolk and has been captured by British authorities, probably will be held in England as a prisoner of war. State Department officials indicated today that no demand would be made on England for the fugitive's return.

A new and novel precedent was presented in Koch's capture aboard a Danish steamer. Being a naval officer he is a belligerent. England's right to hold him as a war prisoner is unquestioned.

As there is no United States law under which Koch can be punished for breaking his parole, this being a mere breach of faith and honor, officials state it is doubtful if his return to this country will be asked. They state that the reason this country interned the Germans was to keep them from re-entering the war. In Koch's case this can be as successfully accomplished by England.

"EGG KINGS" WORRIED.

Allies Fail to Make Purchases in This Country This Fall.

New York, Nov. 19.— Big "egg kings" of the United States who planned to reap harvests of profits by selling shiploads of eggs to the allies are wigwagging the public for help.

The allies failed to make heavy purchases of eggs in this country this fall. The "egg kings" are caught with a surplus of eggs on their hands and prospects of a mild winter. In twenty-four big cold storage warehouses in the United State lie more than 1,000,000,000 eggs, or more than ten apiece for every man, woman and child in the country.

Unless the housewives of the country come to their rescue and buy cold storage eggs, wholesale men declared today, several big egg dealers face prospects of financial ruin.

The price of cold storage eggs to wholesale dealers today was 2 cents lower than on the same day last year. The market is wobbling badly. A few weeks more of mild weataher may send millions of dozens of cold storage eggs tumbling upon the market and send retail prices down with a crash.

It is possible, wholesale men said, that cold storage eggs may be selling at retail at less than 20 cents a dozen. The price in New York, now ranges from 29 to 36 cents.

Strictly fresh eggs today are 4 cents higher wholesale than they were on the same day last year.

WED ON A DARE.

Reading Bride After Living Apart From Husband a Year Brings Suit.

Reading, Pa. Nov. 19.—Married on a dare at Elkton, Md., on October 12, 1914, Albert Michaelis, of Philadelphia, and his Reading bride never lived together, the woman says in a suit for divorce heard here. A divorce was recommended by John K. Hahn, master, on the ground of improper conduct by the husband. Both are about twenty years of age.

That Michaelis promised to provide a home inside of two months and that he failed to do so was part of the complaint against him. The wedding was a sequel to a chance remark at a party at which both were guests, the couple later taking on the suggestion and immediately separating. They went to their respective homes.

"He sent me home after the wedding," the wife asserted. Here are extracts from insulting letters she says he sent to her.

"I only married you on a dare and would never live with you."

"I wish never to see you again."

"I do not want you to use my name, as I don't consider you my wife, one bit."

"We never lived together and never will, I think this will clear my meaning."

"I think you are a very foolish girl to be wasting your time this way. You know you are not wanted down here at all, so I think that it would be best if you remain home."

KILLLS MAN AND HERSELF.

Mrs. Donnelly and W. J. Collier Found Dead in Room.

New York, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Myrtle Donnelly, whose dead body was found on a bed beside the remains of Walter J. Collier, in a room on the ground-floor flat at 754 Mc-Donough street, Brooklyn, was formerly of Norfolk, Va., Donnely, husband of the woman, is a gunner in the Navy and is believed to be in Panama. An effort will be made to notify him of the tragedy.

Collier, who had assumed the name of Donnelly and represented the young woman as his sister, was it is said, an awning-maker.

BANK ROBBERS GOT $16,000

$40,000 First Reported Stolen From Buenos Aires Branch.

New York, Nov. 19.—Officers of the National City Bank, received a cable message from the Buenos Aires branch of the bank yesterday stating that the branch had been robbed of $16,000 not $40,000 as stated in press dispatches. The message did not give any intimation as to the manner in which the money had been stolen, but W. A. Stimson, vice president of the bank, said notice had been received from Buenos Aires that a shortage had been discovered.

GREECE HALTS NEWS.

No Dispatches From Athens or Saloniki Received Since Yesterday.

London, Nov. 19.—No dispatches have been received either from Athens or Saloniki since early Thursday morning, and this closure of telegraphic communication is regarded as ominous for the position of the Serbian army which is engaged in a difficult retreat.

The result of the conference of Denys Cochin, member of the French cabinet, with the Greek ministers at Athens, is still unknown, but acording to a statement the Greek premier, M. Skouloudis, is not in favor of disarming and interning the Anglo-French and Serbian troops should they be forced into Greek territory.

There is reason to believe that if they be compelled to withdraw into Greece they will not be interned.

BULL KILLS LITTLE GIRL

Farmer's Tiny Daughter Strayed Into Field With Cattle

Woodstown, N. J., Nov. 19—A bull attacked and gored to death Gene, the 3-year-old daughter of Frank Borton, on his farm near here yesterday. Farm hands and members of the Borton family discovered the little girl's plight too late to save her. When they attempted to rescue her they were compelled to fight off the maddened beast before they could reach the child's mangled body. The little victim of the bull's fury was beyond aid when a hurriedly summoned physician reached the farm.

The child strayed from the farm house and got into a field where a heard of cattle were at pasture.

LEAVE COUNTRY OR ENLIST.

Resolution Adopted by City Council of Paris.

Paris, Nov. 19.— The Paris City Council has adopted a measure presented by its president, Henria Galli, and Poirier de Naracy, urging that all subjects of Allied nations of military age who are residing in France be required either to enlist in the French Army, those who refuse to be confined in concentration camps.

The motion also sets forth that subjects or citizens of neutral countries should not receive residential permits except upon recommendation of their governments and after rigid investigation of their credentials.

BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A GLOOMY FORECAST.

According to Houston Stewart Chamberlain, who, although the son of an English admiral, has become a German, the present war is to continue one hundred years. He has contributed to one of the Hamburg newspapers a statement of his views on the present and future relations between England and Gremany.

He is convinced that the war between the countries will last for atleast a centry.

He does not mean, he explains, that the present fighting will continue for so long a time, but rather that an international struggle has commenced. of which the world-war is but a phase.

"The German word kreig" observes Mr. Chamberlain, "means much more than the English word 'war' or the French 'guerre;' it really signifies an obstinate persistence in the endeavor to accomplish some purpose. In this sense, the war between England and Germany was long feared, and every effort was made to avert it, but in the end it was wantonly brought about. Now we must steel ourselves for the contest will be conducted as bitterly after peace has been concluded as it is being conducted now."

The Germans will easily mend their relations with Italy and Russia, declares Chamberlain. France it likely to be a disturbing element, but he is convinced that force and sagacity will ultimately. master that difficulty With England, however, the matter is different. For the struggle between England and Germany is no mere fight for physical ascendancy. Each nation wishes to secure the ascendancy for its world-philosophy,

"A situation has now arisen, the writer contends, which will continue until one nation subjugates the other for the two cannot possibly live on the same footing near and with one another. Diplomatic agreements and courts of arbitration cannot in any way effect such a situation, for this is a war between the two ideals of life, and it must be fought out, in war with firearms and in peace with intellectual weapons.

It is impossible by any argument or proof to convince the Englishman that he and his race are not predestined to rule the earth. The only way to teach an Englishman that he is wrong is to compel him by force to recognize it. Once Germany holds the power in its hand, it can permit the English and others to follow the bent of their own minds in their own sphere. But in the meantime Germany must be strong and inflexible."

THE FUTURE OF POLAND.

The failure of the German campaign in Russia, with the probability that during the coming winter the invaders will be driven back into their own country, as is suggested by the Philadelphia Record, is likely to bring forward before long the disposition that is to be made of Poland. It will be recalled that the Grand Duke Nicholas in appealing to the Poles for support pledged, in the name of Russia, autonomy, to that long-oppressed country. So did the Teutons.

So far as the Poles can see, this was pure buncombe, There is not the faintest sign yet of the liberty and independence promised. Indeed ,leading German newspapers are declaring that the restoration of Poland is out of the question, and agrarian and industrial associations, in outlining their views of what Germany should receive in the event of victory, lay claim to a large part of the Russian Baltic provinces, which formerly belonged to Poland. There is unanimous rejection of the idea that Prussia should relinquish a portion of the territory she gained in the final partition of Poland. Naturally, such a repudiation of solemn promises is embittering the Poles, who fail to see where "western civilization" is a great improvement over "eastern barbarism." The Germans have now occupied parts of Poland for over a year, and there is no evidence yet that they intend to give either liberty or independence.

The immediate outlook for Poland cannot be called bright. Germany has repudiated her promises, and so Russia probably will if she again gets the upper hand. The resurrected Kingdom of Poland is still in the dim future.

SHOULD NOT CROWD A CHILD.

"Make the child something more than a machine," was the theme of the closing day of th Burlington County, N. J., Teacher's Institute in the High School Auditorium, at Mount Holly, A. B. Meredith, assistant State Commissioner of Education in charge of secondary schools, insisted on the teachers' studying the mental activities of the child and prepare themselves to meet all conditions with which the yare confronted in dealing with the psycological side of school life. The child, he said, would become more interested in school work if it could see the object of study and know what it really meant.

Many years ago the late Dr. Tallmage delivered a sermon on the danger of overcrowding childen by studies. He alleged that cases of brain disorder were often brought about by attempting to compress too much information into children especially those whose ages range from six to eight years. Their mental powers, he said, should not be forced at such tender periods.

HORSE EATS ROLL OF $250

Cash, Dropped With Hay Into Manger, Part of Meal

Northumberland, Pa., Nov. 19.—Missing his $250 roll of bills, William B. Miller, a local drayman, went into his stable Tuesday and found a few shreds of it in the feedbox of his horse's stall, the animal having eaten it while munching it's meals of hay. Miller's belief is that he dropped the roll while throwing hay down into the manger last night.

He has carefully preserved the bits and hopes to have the United States Treasury redeem them. Miller is wondering, he says, whether or not the value of the animal has been enhanced that amount of money. It was worth $250 before the money meal.

DEATH TESTS USED FOR SOLDIERS ON THE FIELD.

Italian Surgeons Use Ether Examining Their Fallen Countrymen.

Three methods used in the rear of the fighting lines by army surgeons to determine in doubtful cases whether a soldier who has fallen is alive or dead are described in La Clinica Medica Italiana and discussed in the current number of the Medical Record.

The first of these is to drop ether into the conjunctival sac of one eye. If this is followed by a reddening of the conjunctiva it affords proof that the circulation is intact and that life is still present. The other eye is used as a control.

"The second test," the Medical Record says, "has been recently proposed by Icard. It consists in the subcutaneous injection of fluoresceln, which, if the individual is still living, is soon followed by a yellowish coloring of the skin and mucosa.

"The conjunctiva and the mucous membrane of the mouth, and particularly the frenum of the tongue, show this coloration most distinctly. The test consists in the injection of eight to ten cubic centimeters of a solution of twenty grams of fluoresin and thirty grams of sodium carbonate in 100 grams of distilled water. A negative result is obtained in cases of marked slowing or enfeeblement of the circulation, as during the agonal condition.

"The third test has recently been proposed by Halluin. It consists in the direct exploration of the heart by means of a stilette. This is introduced through a small incision in one of the intercostal spaces. Any movement of the heart is communicated to the stilette. In some cases of suspended animation it is possible to arouse cardiac activity by means of gentle movements of the stilette, combined with artificial respiration."

AMERICAN SHRAPNEL.

Our Fifteen Pound Shells Are Packed With 252 Bullets.

Aside from poison gases and fire bombs, the most deadly engines of modern warfare are shrapnel shells. The most effective parts of the shrapnel are the lead bullets contained in the shell, which are thrown out in a conical shape when the timing fuse, which explodes the powder at the base, blows the nose off the shell, freeing the bullets packed within it. In an eighteen pound shell the range of these bullets is approximately 250 square yards.

The lead bullets, which are generally half an inch in diameter, are made from a number of different compositions, the most common being that of eighty-seven and one-half parts lead and twelve and one-half parts antimony. The actual number of lead bullets contained in a single shell varies with the different governments which manufacture them. In the American fifteen pound shell there are 252; in the British fifteen pound shell there are 225. The bullets in the American shell have six flattened sides. In the foreign made shells the bullets have spherical sides, an arrangement which does not allow of so close packing as the American plan.

There are two methods of manufacturing shrapnel shells which are commonly used at the present time. By one of these the bullets are cast in iron molds, which are split down the center to facilitate removal after casting. By the other slugs are cut from lead wire and struck between dies in a heading machine. One hydraulic wire press and fourteen heading machines, which have a producing capacity of 850 bullets a minute, are used for the manufacture of flattened bullets. One hydraulic press and eight heading machines, with a capacity of 950 bullets a minute, are used to produce the spherical bullets.

The lead bullets for years have been cast from lead wire by a process which is gradually going out of use, and a newer and more rapid process has taken it place. In the method used almost exclusively at present the molten lead is poured into a cylinder from which it is pushed out through a die by means of a plunger, the metal having time to settle before it is forced through the press.

The bullets are shaken together in a tumbling machine or barrel for an hour, the action of one against another removing all unevenness on the sides. A careful watch is kept over the tumbling operation, as it is necessary to see that the bullets conform to a certain standard of weight. A variation of one dram to a pound of bullets is allowed, forty-one bullets a pound being the accepted standard.—New York Times.

Cannon Compared.

The comparison between the sound of cannon and [illegible]'s artillery is hackneyed enough. But the human invention can at least claim great superiority as regards the area over which it is heard. There is no doubt about cannon fire being heard well over 100 miles away. The guns of Waterloo were heard at Creil, fifty leagues distant from the battlefield. But it is doubtful whether thunder can be heard at a greater distance than twenty miles. When the church steeple of Lostwithiel was destroyed by lightning, to the accompaniment of such a roar of thunder that the oldest inhabitant could not remember, Smeaton, the engineer, who was about thirty miles distant, heard not the slightest noise.—London Standard.

The Aurora Borealis.

Many people believe that the aurora borealis is a phenomenon peculiar to modern times. But this is not true. The ancients used to call it chasmata, bolides and trabes, names which expressed the different colors of the lights. The scarlet aurora was looked upon by the superstitious barbarians as an omen of direful slaughter; so it is not unusual for descriptions of bloody battles to contain allusions to northern lights.—Atlanta Constitution.

Children's First Shoes.

Let the first shoe be on the order of an Indian moccasin, and as the foot grows it should be fitted from tracings.

Have the child stand upon a piece of paper and trace the outline of the foot with a pencil.

Use this as a guide when buying his shoes, and you will never make the mistake of getting them too small or ill fitting.—Chicago Tribune.

Getting Gamy.

Perturbed Diner—What on earth is the matter with you this evening, waiter? First you give me the fish, and now you give me the soup. Waiter (confidentially)—Well, to tell the truth, sir, it was 'igh time you 'ad that fish. After the soup it'd ha' been too late.—London Mail.

Quite Satisfied.

In old age Boswell said to Johnson, apropos the dictionary, "You did not know what you were undertaking." "Yes, sir," was the answer, "I knew very well what I was undertaking and very well how to do it and have done it very well."—London Standard.

Open to Any Offer.

Young Man—So Miss Ethel is your eldest sister. Who comes after her? Small Brother—Nobody ain't come yet, but pa says the first fellow that comes can have her.—London Stray Stories.

GETS-IT" FOR CORNS SURE AS SUNRISE!

Any Corn, With "Gets-It" on It, Is an Absolute "Goner!"

Yes, it's the simplest thing in the world to get rid of a corn—when you use "Gets-It" the world's greatest corn-ridder. Really, it's almost a pleasure to have corns just to see them come off with "Gets-it." It just loosens the corn from the true flesh easily, and then make it come "clean off". 48 hours ends corns for keeps. It makes the use of tape, corn-squeezing bandages ,irritating slaves knives scissors, and razors really look ridiculous. Get rid of those corns quickly, surely, painlessly,—just easily,—with "Gets-It's the 20th century way.

NAVAL BATTLE IMMINENT.

Ships of England and Germany Appear in North Sea.

Copenhagen, Nov. 19.—It is reported from Helsingborg, Sweden, that eighteen German torpedo boats were seen steaming down the Cattegat yesterday. It is presumed that these ships are part of the German squadron sighted yesterday steaming up the Cattegat toward the North Sea. The squadron apparently divided near Githenburg.

London, Nov. 19.—A dispatch from Copenhagen says: A big squadron of British destroyers and cruisers has been seen in the Cattegat, between Anholt and Sweden. It is believed that an important naval engagement is imminent.

HUMORS OF CASTE.

How Rules Governing Travel, Study and Dining Are Broken.

Though going to foreign countries by crossing the ocean is to break one's caste, hundreds of young Indians are now visiting Europe and America in pursuit of modern scientific and industrial education. Indeed, so numerous are the families affected that public opinion has compelled the Brahmans to ordain that no loss of caste shall result from going abroad for education. The step next contemplated, says the Century Magazine, is to have merchants and other business men exempted from the ban. It is certain that in time all classes of travelers will be exempted.

It is not so much the going abroad that is objected to as the eating of forbidden food, as beef, pork and chicken or any food cooked by foreigners. To obviate partly this difficulty the Hindus organized a steamship line, the Indian Peninsula company, between Bombay and London. On board the ships of this line Hindu caste rules are studiously observed. This company intends to open a hotel in London for the caste people of India, so the Hindu students, scholars and travelers may go to London, reside for any length of time and still return home without breaking their caste.

Caste rules prohibit people of different castes [illegible] together. "Why," said the wig man as he pointed to a case in his Sixth avenue establishment, "there are wigs in there made of human hair that I would defy the closest scrutiny to detect as 'fakes.' Would you believe it, one of my customers, a well known man in this section of the city, wore one of these wigs from the night he was married for ten long years, and his wife never knew that he was bald? It is a fact, sir, a positive fact.

"In year and out for the entire ten he was so careful that his spouse never had the slightest suspicion. The way the discovery came about was—well, while it was painful to him it nevertheless had a gleam of humor in it. He bought a new wig and I sent him the bill to his business address. He carried the bill home inadvertently, changed his suit, and his wife found the little telltale paper in his pocket. And he would not have been discovered then only his wife, sad to say, believed that he was paying for the wig of some lady, and there was a stormy time. He was forced to reveal himself as bald. But you will readily see it was not the fault of my workmanship. I wear one myself. Could you tell? Nobody could."—New York Sun.

Almost Made a Word.

Has [illegible] handwriting ever managed to add a new word to the language? There have certainly been some narrow escapes. A correspondent sent to Sir James Murray for the New Oxford Dictionary the mysterious word "brean," which he found in a story by R. L. Stevenson. It was presumed to be an obscure Scottish term, and the presumption lasted till Stevenson wrote back that the word he had written was "ocean." Had the author been dead "brean" would no doubt have figured in the dictionary as sanctioned by "R. L. S."—London Observer.

Central Asia.

The people living in the cotton belt of central Asia represent a conglomerate of all the races and nations that in ages past have inhabited these regions, from pure Aryans to full fledged Mongols. OUR ICY OCTOPUS.

Mount Rainier and Its Majestic Frozen Rivers.

GRIPPED BY GIANT GLACIERS

Their Huge, Wrinkled, Frosty Arms Reach Down and Out Among the Most Luxuriant Masses of Wild Flowers to Be Found In This Country.

A frozen octopus of enormous bulk whose glittering armored body rises three miles into the sky, with twenty or more huge wrinkled arms reaching down among thousands of acres of the most gorgeous and luxuriant wild flowers to squirt from each fingertip a river of ice water into the valley below!

Surely a quotation from the "Arabian Nights" or a ghost tale to frighten children on Halloween!

But no. However figurative, this is a true statement of an actual fact. There really exists such an ice armored octopus in these United States. It is a justifiable description of the most interesting mountain in Uncle Sam's dominions and perhaps in the world.

Mount Rainier is in the state of Washington, fifty-six miles southwest of Tacoma. It is one of that celebrated range of volcanoes which were supposed to be extinct until Lassen peak broke forth again. Rainier, though supporting one of the most remarkable single peak glacial systems in the world, emits steam from certain crevices, evidence of present internal heat.

In height Rainier is second in the United States only to Mount Whitney. The altitude of the main summit has for many years been in doubt. Several figures have been announced from time to time, no two of them in agreement with each other, but all of these, it is to be observed, were obtained by more or less approximate methods. In 1913 the United States geological survey, in connection with its topographic surveys of the Mount Rainier National park, made a new series of measurements by triangulation methods at close range. These give the peak an elevation of 14,408 feet. This last figure is not likely to be in error by more than a foot or two and may with some confidence be regarded as final. Greater exactness of determination is scarcely practicable in the case of Mount Rainier, as its highest summit consists actually of a mound of snow, the height of which naturally varies somewhat with the seasons and from year to year.

This crowning snow mound, which was once supposed to be the highest point in the United States, still bears the proud name of Columbia crest. It is essentially a huge snowdrift or snow dune heaped up by the furious westerly winds.

Six great glaciers originate at the very summit. They are the Nisqually, the Ingraham, the Emmons, the Winthrop, the Tahoma and the Kautz glaciers. But many of great size and stateliness are born of the snows in rock pockets or cirques—ice sculptured bowls of great dimensions and ever increasing depth—from which they merge into the glistening armor of the huge volcano. The most distinguished of these are the Cowlitz, the Paradise, the Frying Pan, the Carbon, the Russell, the North and South Mowich, the Puyallup and the Pyramid glaciers.

More than twenty glaciers, great and small, clothe Rainier—rivers of ice, with many of the characteristics of rivers of water, roaring at times over precipices like waterfalls, rippling and tumbling down rocky slopes, veritable noisy cascades, rising smoothly up on hidden rocks to foam, brooklike, over its lower edges.

Each glacier, whether originating at the bright summit or in vast springlike cirques, begins in even, immaculate snow. A thousand feet or so below it attains sufficient density and weight to acquire movement. Here, looking down into a crevasse, one sees nothing but clean snow, piled in layers—slightly compacted and loosely granular snow, called neve in the Swiss Alps. Gradually as the current sweeps along it compacts, under the pressure and the surface meltings, into hard, dense, blue ice.

In glowing contrast to this marvelous spectacle of ice are the gardens of wild flowers surrounding the glaciers, pushing, wherever the rock and ice will permit, up the giant slopes. These flowery spots are called parks—Spray park, St. Andrews park, Henry's hunting ground, Paradise, Summerland and many others.

"Above the forests," writes John Muir, "there is a zone of the loveliest flowers, fifty miles in circuit and nearly two miles wide, so closely planted and luxurious that it seems as if nature, glad to make an open space between woods so dense and he so deep, were economizing the precious ground and trying to see how many of her darlings she can get together in one mountain wreath—daisies, anemones, columbine, erythroniums, larkspurs, etc., among which we wade knee deep and waist deep, the bright corollas in myriads touching petal to petal. Altogether this is the richest subalpine garden I have ever found, a perfect flower elysium."

The lower altitudes of the park are densely timbered with fir, cedar, hemlock, maple, alder, cottonwood and spruce. The forested areas, extending to an altitude of about 6,500 feet, gradually decrease in density of growth after an altitude of 4,000 feet is reached, and the high, broad plateaus between the glacial canyons present incomparable scenes of diversified beauties, seemingly arranged to suit every taste.

HANGS SELF TO BED POST

Knots Towel About Neck Then Draws Up His Feet

Philadelphia, Nov. 19—Michael Davis, 45 years old, a grocer, ended his life in the back room of his store, No. 700 Pine street, yesterday by hanging himself from a bedpost. He used a long towel, which he knotted about his neck and threw over the bedpost, only about five feet high. Gradually bending, his knees until the towel become taut, he lifted his feet. In that position he remained until he strangled to death.

A few moments before he was busy about his store with his daughter, Rita. He left the store and went into the back room on the first floor. Some minutes later, missing him, the daughter went into the room and found her father dead.

The police say Davis had been despondent during the last five months because his business was not paying. He also had been ill, and had made an effort several days ago, the police say to end his life.

The principal features of the Farmers' Institute which opened today at Manassas was the annual corn and poultry show.
